Dear Colleagues,

Participatory governance is one of the major characteristics of California Community Colleges. Education Code Section 70901(b) required the Board of Governors to adopt resolutions setting “...minimum standards governing procedures established to governing boards in community college districts to ensure faculty, staff, and students the right to participate in district and college governance”. In order to participate in the governance process, it is imperative that the planning and decision making processes as well as hierarchies are clearly articulated. This Governance and Committees Handbook is an excellent resource guide that provides an insight into the decision-making process at Columbia College.

During the last strategic planning process, the need to review the college-wide committee structure was recognized. I am thankful to the faculty, classified professionals, students, and administrators who reviewed the existing processes and recommended changes. The committee leaders and constituent representatives deserve a special credit for their commitment to the principles of participatory governance.

I encourage all of you to take a few minutes to familiarize yourself with the decision-making process on campus and participate in the process. Your active participation and engagement is important to continue the culture of participatory governance at Columbia College.

Go Jumpers!

President, Columbia College

Introduction

The purpose of this Governance and Committees Handbook is to describe the structure for making decisions at Columbia College. This document outlines the processes and mechanisms through which the college’s constituent groups participate equitably and collegially in decision-making.

Processes outlined in this document address ACCJC Accreditation Standard IV.A.2:

The institution establishes and implements a written policy providing for faculty, staff, administrators, and student participation in decision-making processes. The policy specifies the manner in which individuals bring forward ideas from their constituencies and work together on appropriate policy, planning, and special-purpose bodies.

(ACCJC Accreditation Standards, Revised June 2014)

As administrators, faculty, classified, and students at Columbia College, we recognize our common interest in the success and well-being of the Yosemite Community College District (YCCD), Columbia College, and its students. In order to ensure success, we all share the responsibility of acting jointly so that the college speaks to the district and the community with one voice, maintains stability and continuity, and effectively fulfills its stated mission.

We recognize that in order to ensure a joint effort, each of the college constituencies (administrators, faculty, staff, and students) must have an initiating capacity and a participatory role in making decisions in the important areas of college and district deliberations and actions. This collegial decision-making process recognizes the variety of skills within the institution and is based upon mutual trust and respect.

We also recognize that some areas of the institution rely on the expertise and oversight of specific constituencies or individuals. Examples include faculty primacy in the area of curriculum review and development, the student body and student services area on matters of student governance, and administrators on the day-to-day leadership of the college.

As a small institution, our decision-making structure consists of a limited number of councils and committees. This structure maximizes the opportunity for meaningful input by each individual while minimizing the time required to participate effectively. Instead of several topical committees, we form larger groups with oversight over a broader spectrum of related concepts. We rely upon the ebb and flow of the academic year to bring a variety of topics to the forefront at their appointed hour while minimizing the need to schedule last-minute meetings for yet another topical discussion.
Collectively, we endeavor to bring matters of importance forward to the appropriate councils and committees in a timely manner, allowing for sufficient time for discussion and the opportunity for participants to seek input from their constituent groups when necessary. Yet we also recognize that external bodies and agencies having jurisdiction over the YCCD and/or the college will, at times, set limits on the time available for action. At such times, every effort will be made to communicate with or through the Columbia College Council, but the ultimate responsibility for compliance lies with the administration and deadlines must be met. In such cases where time does not allow lengthy consideration, action taken will be communicated to the Columbia College Council in a timely manner.

Handbook Overview

The following pages consist of:

- The overarching principles guiding our institution – our mission, vision, values, and strategic goals.
- Definitions of terms to ensure a mutual understanding of our structures and components.

Definition of Terms

To ensure common understanding in our conversations with one another, we establish the following definitions. These definitions are used consistently within this document, but also in our dialog across the institution, with our constituencies, and with others in our district.

Constituency/Constituencies:

A constituency is a body of individuals that provides representation on behalf of a particular group. The four overarching constituencies of Columbia College are students, faculty, classified staff and administrators. Each member of the campus community falls into one of these four groups. Together, these four constituencies comprise the full college community, as shown in the diagram to the right. While others in the wider community but outside the college certainly have interest in the college’s activities, they do not participate directly in decision-making regarding the college’s directions and, consequently, are not considered to be a constituency of the college.

Constituent Group:

While each member of the college community falls into one constituency, many are represented by more than one constituent group. A constituent group is a designated body with a specific purpose or charter that designates representatives to the college’s governance councils. Each constituent group designates representatives to all councils and to some but not all committees and workgroups. The following are the designated constituent groups representing the constituencies of Columbia College, a brief synopsis of each group, and a description of how they select representatives to the college’s councils. For further information, review the description of each constituent group in subsequent pages and/or refer to their websites.
Students – The Associated Students of Columbia College (ASCC), also known as Student Government, is the officially recognized student group that represents all students of Columbia College. The ASCC consists of the student senate and its clubs. All elected and appointed positions are held for one year and include executive officers, senators, and students-at-large. Appointments for student members to campus-wide committees are made by the ASCC President, who also sits on the College Council.

Administrators – The administrators of Columbia College, also referred to as managers, are appointed to serve on the college’s councils and committees by the College President. Administrators are at times also represented by the Leadership Team Advisory Committee (LTAC), an association designated with developing the Leadership Team Handbook and engaging in meet-and-confer discussions with the district regarding matters of salary and working conditions. When requested, the LTAC President will appoint representatives to serve on committees and councils.

Classified Staff – The classified staff of Columbia College are represented by two distinct constituent groups, the Classified Senate and the California School Employees Association.

Classified Senate – The primary responsibility of the Classified Senate is to act as the representative body of the college’s classified staff in professional matters through the campus governance process. Classified staff elect representatives for one-year terms. The Classified Senate may make recommendations to the college administration and the College Council on all issues and activities pertaining to classified staff not covered by their collective bargaining units. Representatives to the college’s councils and committees are appointed by the President of the Classified Senate.

California School Employees Association (CSEA) – The CSEA is the collective bargaining unit for all full-time and part-time classified staff at Columbia College and Modesto Junior College within the Yosemite Community College District (YCCD). The CSEA represents classified staff interests that are addressed in the CSEA/YCCD Contract. Representatives to councils and committees are appointed by the CSEA President.

Faculty – The faculty of Columbia College are also represented by two distinct constituent groups, the Academic Senate and the Yosemite Faculty Association.

Yosemite Faculty Association (YFA) – The YFA is the collective bargaining unit for all full-time and part-time faculty at Columbia College and Modesto Junior College within the Yosemite Community College District (YCCD). The YFA represents faculty interests that are addressed in the YFA/YCCD Contract. The YFA President appoints representatives to the college’s councils and committees.
Academic Senate – The Academic Senate is the voice for the faculty on academic and professional matters in the participatory governance process. The Senate makes recommendations to the administration related to the following areas of professional and academic responsibility.

1. Curriculum, including establishing prerequisites and placing courses within disciplines;
2. Degree and certificate requirements;
3. Grading policies;
4. Educational program development;
5. Standards or policies regarding student preparation and success;
6. District and College governance structures, as related to faculty roles;
7. Faculty roles and involvement in accreditation processes, including self-study and annual reports;
8. Policies for faculty professional development activities;
9. Processes for program review; and
10. Processes for institutional planning and budget development;
11. In addition, the Academic Senate is responsible for making recommendations regarding other academic and professional matters as mutually agreed upon with the governing board.

Columbia’s Academic Senate is a senate of the whole, meaning that all full-time faculty members are members of the senate, as contrasted with larger colleges that employ a representative structure as their senate. Representatives to the college’s councils and committees are appointed by the President of the Academic Senate.

Important note: The Academic Senate has a unique stature among the constituent groups listed in that its role is delineated in both Title 5 of the California Education Code and Board Policy, often referred to as the “10 + 1 areas of academic and professional matters.” As such, the Academic Senate has a uniquely strong role in certain specific aspects of the participatory decision-making process. Depending on the criterion, the college may either primarily rely upon the input of the Academic Senate or be required to arrive at a point of mutual agreement prior to proceeding forward with a decision.

Council:

A council is a participatory governance group which consists of representation from all constituent groups. A council serves to make recommendations as part of a formal decision-making process of the college. Each council may establish workgroups to attend to a particular task or project. Meeting agendas are sent out to participants and posted online. Minutes are taken, reviewed, and posted online as a permanent record of our participatory governance activities. Columbia College has three designated councils whose roles are delineated in subsequent sections of this handbook:

- College Council
- Institutional Effectiveness Council
- Student Success Council

Consensus:

The three councils utilize collegial decision-making processes built upon mutual trust and respect. Recommendations of the councils are generally made by consensus. This indicates that the members of the council have come to general agreement on a direction or recommendation. Consensus does not mean that all participants are enamored of the idea, but rather that they are willing to live with the recommendation and support it moving forward. At times when the members are unable to reach this level of consensus after significant discussion honoring the input of all participants, actions may be taken to a vote of the council.

Standing Committee:

A standing committee is a high-level group at the college meeting three criteria: 1. They work on an essential area of college activity; 2. Their work has broad implications across the institution; and 3. Their work is ongoing from year to year. A standing committee is not required to have representatives from all constituent groups and as such is not fully a participatory governance agent of the college, despite following similar principles. Meeting agendas are sent to participants and minutes are taken and posted, creating a permanent record of activities for these standing committees. There are six standing committees of the college:

- Curriculum Committee
- Student Learning Outcomes Committee
- Technology Committee
- Distance Education Committee
- College Services Committee
- Academic Wellness Educators (AWE) Committee
Staff Meeting:

A staff meeting is an informational meeting to disseminate information, discuss activities, and determine directions. Staff meetings consist of a manager and his/her direct reports. Agendas and minutes are not required to be publicized or posted. However, some staff meetings (e.g. division meetings) do build and review agendas and minutes and keep these as a record of activities and information shared. Examples of staff meetings at the college include:

- President’s Cabinet
- Administrative Team
- Deans Meetings
- Management Team
- Division Meetings
- Department Meetings

Other Committees/Workgroups:

Other committees and workgroup meet periodically, seasonally, or as needed. The use of formal agendas and minutes will depend upon the topic under discussion.

- Accreditation Steering Committee
- Classified Senate Scholarship Committee
- Faculty Scholarship Committee
- Graduation Committee
- Sabbatical Committee
- Other committees called for by the YFA or CSEA contract or the Leadership Team Handbook (e.g. faculty banking committee)
The decision-making structure at Columbia College is comprised of two levels of councils and our collection of standing committees.

Each standing committee has a specified charge and membership. College-wide recommendations from each committee are submitted, as needed, to one or more of the councils for discussion and recommendation to the college president for action. The line between standing committees and the councils indicates that standing committees may provide input to any of the councils or constituent groups depending on the topic. That is, none of the standing committees directly report to any of the councils.

The councils together represent the formal participatory governance activities of the college. Discussions at the council level follow the principles of collegial decision-making and are built upon mutual trust and respect. Decisions and recommendations are made via consensus, as defined in this document.

The Institutional Effectiveness Council considers matters including program review, assessment cycles, analyzing data, enrollment management, and professional development, among others. The Institutional Effectiveness Council makes recommendations to the College Council.

The Student Success Council considers matters related to providing thoughtful and integrated services to promote student success, equity, and progression. This body is also charged with developing budget recommendations regarding the many categorical funds and special programs of the institution. The Student Success Council makes recommendations to the College Council.
College Council is the principal participatory governance body, which makes recommendation to the President on college policy and procedural matters. College Council also advises the President to advocate at the district level on college wide issues. Recommendations from the College Council requiring formal district approval are submitted through the college president to the chancellor and the Yosemite Community College District Board of Trustees.

While College Council provides recommendations to the College President, the President is ultimately responsible to make the decision on behalf of the college. Due to the collegial process of developing consensus on recommendations, only rarely will the President have to exercise his/her power of review or make final decisions that differ from those recommendations. In such a case, the President should communicate in writing the specific reasons to the Columbia College Council for representatives to share with their respective constituencies.

Decision-Making Roles and Responsibilities

Role of the Board of Trustees

The YCCD Board of Trustees is the ultimate decision maker on district policies and master plans. The Board delegates to the Chancellor and College Presidents final approval of college and campus administrative procedures, operational issues, and strategic plans.

Role of President

Board policies identify the YCCD Board of Trustees’ specific legal and fiduciary responsibilities, as well as their relationship with the Chancellor and College President. Board Policy 2430.1 defines the delegation of authority through the Chancellor to the College Presidents. The president is the chief executive officer of the college in accordance with the Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges eligibility requirements: The institution has a chief executive officer appointed by the governing board whose full-time responsibility is to the institution, and who possesses the requisite authority to administer board policies. (Standard IV: C12)

Role of College Council

The College Council forwards governance issues to and receives recommendations from the constituencies, and then, after thorough discussion, makes recommendations to the President on the issues.

Individuals, committees, constituent groups, and operational groups develop proposals and recommendations that are forwarded to College Council.
Role of Other Councils

The Institutional Effectiveness Council and Student Success Council review data, develop proposals, institute and follow-up on processes, and forward recommendations to College Council.

Role of Council Representatives

Council discussions ensure that there is an inclusive and transparent dialog on core campus issues and that all campus constituent groups have an opportunity to provide input and present ideas for improving the practices, programs, and services in which they are involved that support the mission of the college. Council Representatives have a unique and critical role as the conduit for information in both directions. It is the obligation of the council representative to take ideas presented at the council to their constituent groups for feedback and return that input to the council to ensure that all voices and concerns are heard while developing recommendations.

Role of College Constituencies

Decision making at Columbia College relies upon the spirit and principles of participatory governance focused on improving student learning. Members of the college community have the authority and responsibility to make recommendations in matters appropriate in scope to their roles in the college governance process. The following pages outline the make-up, role, and responsibilities of each constituent group, as derived from the California Education Code, California Code of Regulations, the Yosemite Community College District Board of Trustees policies and procedures, Academic Senate rules and bylaws, CSEA contract and bylaws, the Associated Student Government constitution and bylaws, YFA contract and bylaws.
How do I get involved?

Being a part of a council or standing committee allows you to network with your peers and gain access to different perspectives from a variety of people. In addition, committees spend a fair amount of time simply brainstorming and discussing ideas. This allows for open conversation about the issues and challenges members are facing, and help provide solutions to problems.

Contact your constituent group leader:

- Faculty - Academic Senate and/or YFA
- Students - Associated Students of Columbia College (ASCC)
- Classified Staff - Classified Senate and/or CSEA
- Management - Leadership Team Advisory Council

How is committee membership decided?

Members are appointed by their respective constituent group.

How are decisions made regarding how things are approved via voting, etc.?

Consensus building.
